Not illustrated. 1879 Excerpt: .a series of nervous curtses with her cup in one hand and her hat in the other, smiled too, and looked less alarmed. It is a little girl whom I found here asleep. She wandered in, poor little thing! and fell asleep, she was so tired and hungry. If you had only seen her! She looks quite different now. Her brother will come for her in a short time; he went to try and get work. Fan, though still very thin, had quite lost the look of recent severe illness, having got sunburned during her wanderings; and her hair had grown long enough to present a respectable appearance again. She was not a pretty child; but she was a very gentle, pleasant-looking little creature, with very frank, honest blue eyes. Moreover, thanks to poor despoiled Etty Spence s blue frock, she was tolerably clean and tidy,...
